Officers Of Burned Ship
Criticized

Morro Castle Captain and Five Face Suspension of Licenses

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—(UP)—The inquiry board of the U.S. steamboat inspection service which conducted hearings into the fire on the Ward liner Morro Castle today ordered acting Capt. William F. Warms and four of his subordinates to show cause October 29 why their licenses should not be suspended or permanently revoked.

The five officers of the giant luxury liner, which was beached off Asbury Park after 124 persons drowned or burned to death, were criticized in the report, a preliminary one signed only by Captain Karl C. Neilson and James Smith, inspectors of the New York district.

Although the report did not assign a cause or fix responsibility for the disaster because its powers extended only to determining whether the officers had been negligent, it definitely took the stand that had the vessel been stopped and the SOS sent when the fire first was discovered, loss of life would not have been so great.

Criticize Crew

In this connection the board severely criticized the conduct of members of the crew, who, it found, after lowering themselves into the sea in lifeboats, failed to heed the appeals of passengers huddled on the stern.

Five specific allegations of negligence were leveled against acting Captain Warms including delaying the SOS, failing to stop the vessel although the superstructure was on fire and it was steaming into a breeze; failing to have the fire hose connected and ready for use, neglecting to order fire screen doors closed, and failing to have the deck crew divided into equal watches.

Chief Engineer Eben S. Abbott, alleged to have been one of the first to take to a lifeboat, was charged with failure to go below and direct the engine room crew. Second Officer Clarence Hackney was accused of failing to supervise properly the lowering of lifeboats when ordered.

Harold Hanson, third officer, was charged with failure to carry out orders and to assist passengers into the lifeboats. Antonio Buja, first assistant engineer, was accused of failure to stay below in the engine room.

The only deck officer not found negligent was Acting Chief Officer Ivan Freeman, who, it was testified, fought the fire and later went forward and let go the anchor.

Other Findings

Other findings of the board as summarized from the report follow: No "successful" effort was made by any of the officers on the crew to lead passengers to the boat deck by the crew's service stairway, thus cutting them off from the life boats. There appears to have been no organized effort on the part of officers to fight the fire.

No effort was made to check the air supply into the room where the fire was discovered.

Captain Warms did not leave the

STATE DROPS PROBE
INTO BABY SELLING

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 16.—(UP)—State investigation of a reported "baby selling racket" was dropped today after witnesses had failed to appear before the state board of medical examiners.

The board had announced it was prepared to receive proof that physicians were engaged in the "business" of selling babies to pay hospital and physicians' fees.

Charges of such practices were made by Miss Elizabeth Owens, supervisor in charge of adoptions for the state welfare department and Mrs. Marie White, head of the children's home society in Oakland.

Neither woman appeared before the medical examiners, and Dr. Charles B. Pinkham, secretary of the board, said:

"This bears out the result of investigations made by the board. I think this puts a quietus on the matter."

LAMSON MUST FACE

EDUCATION BLAMED
FOR DIVORCE JUMP

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 16.—(UP)—Divorce increase was blamed on modern education at the Protestant Episcopal church general convention here today.

The joint commission on marriage and divorce reported as hopeless the thesis that restrictive church laws could control rapid spread of wrecked marriages.

It declared the one hope was to combat with education for marriage — biological, economic, moral and spiritual—the "personal success" philosophy of life which "expresses itself in our modern system of education."

The commission suggested the present church canon on marriage and divorce be unchanged except for a minor provision. Its tenor was liberal. It was read to the house of deputies yesterday and went without comment to the committee on canons today.

While the legal moves are being made to place him once again before a jury, Lamson will remain for a 30-days period in the condemned men's section of San Quentin prison, then will be returned to the Santa Clara county jail.

HARRY SINCLAIR IN BID FOR RICHFIELD

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 16.—(UP)—Additional millions were flung today into the battle H. F. Sinclair is waging for the corporate holdings of the defunct Richfield Oil company, $100,000,000 petroleum enterprise.

Fighting the Rockefeller and Mellon interests on two fronts, Sinclair enlarged his plan of campaign by entering in federal court a bid of $4,000,000 for the Richfield company of New York, California Richfield subsidiary.

At the same time, he further blocked immediate sale of Richfield's half-interest in Sherwood Bros., Inc., a Baltimore oil firm, to the Mellon-owned Gulf Refining Corp. by increasing his original bid to $1,000,000.

The new Sherwood bid, $15,000 higher than Gulf's highest offer, prompted Federal Judge William James to postpone the award until October 29.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 16.—(UP)—Irvin S. Cobb, noted humorist and author, regards Upton Sinclair's half-interest in Sherwood Bros., Inc., a Baltimore oil firm, to the Mellon-owned Gulf Refining Corp. by increasing his original bid to $1,000,000.

The new Sherwood bid, $15,000 higher than Gulf's highest offer, prompted Federal Judge William James to postpone the award until October 29.

"He is always wrong," said Cobb.

LATE NEWS FLASHES

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—(UP)—Dr. William A. Wirt, Gary, Ind., educator who charged members of the administration brain trust had described President Roosevelt as "the Kerensky of the American revolution," was named defendant today in a $400,000 libel and slander suit filed by Rose Schneiderman, of the NRA labor advisory board.

Gijon, Spain, Oct. 16.—(UP)—Twelve persons have been condemned to death here on charges of participating in the recent Socialist revolt.

WICHITA, Kan., Oct. 16.—(UP)—Howard C. Tindle, 24, Springfield, Mo., filling station attendant missing since Sunday night, today told police he was kidnapped by Charles A. "Pretty Boy" Floyd and another man.

FIELD CROPS SHOW
INCREASE, REPORTED

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 16.—(UP)—Eight of California's 15 field crops will show increases in production this year, the federal state crop reporting service estimated today.

Corn, rice, lima beans, potatoes, sweet potatoes, oats, cotton, and grain hay production will show increases over 1933, while reductions may be expected in wheat, barley, beans other than limas, grain sorghum, sugar beets, alfalfa, and tame hay.

Peach production dropped below the 1933 tonnage, but the olive crop increased to 44 per cent of full production, compared with 38 per cent last year.

The loot was in cash.

CITY TREASURY IS
ROBBED OF $11,000

BROCKTON, Mass., Oct. 16.—(UP)—Three bandits held up the city treasurer in his office at city hall today and escaped with $11,000.

City hall is opposite police headquarters.

The robbery was engineered without the firing of a shot. The bandits escaped in an automobile with a confederate.

Treasurer Lee V. Clancy was in his office and a guard, armed with a riot gun, was stationed outside. The trio disarmed and overpowered the guard, Patrolman George Perkins, then rushed into the office and held up the treasurer.

the velocity was 88 miles an hour. Drenching rains, still continuing as Manila began to dig itself out of the wreckage, and high waves accompanied the wind across the islands.

Officials awaited word from the isolated provinces of Bulacan, Nueva Ecija and Pampanga, which also felt the full force of the tropical disturbance.

Sugar, rice and other crops were inundated in the outlying districts.

Streets Flooded

In Manila survey showed that the damage will include beached vessels, flooded streets, water damage to the stocks of stores along Escolta street, main shopping district, and wind damage to warehouses and other buildings.

The U. S. Gertrude Kellogg and the British-owned Grenoble were grounded. Five smaller inter-island vessels were washed ashore.

Warehouses of the Dollar Lines, the United States Marine corps and the Manila Terminal company were damaged in the gale. A wall of the United States army pier was blown in.

Hundreds of windows were broken in apartments, stores and residences. Water and wind made a shambles of the luxurious ballroom of the Manila hotel.

Electric power was shut off until this afternoon. Afternoon newspapers couldn't publish. Governor General Murphy declared a bank holiday because of the crippled transportation system.

blocked roads leading into Manila. Flood waters isolated many districts near the city. Scores of automobile and trolley cars were stalled. Water lay in the streets waist deep in some places.

10,000 Homeless

Semi-official reports for Bulacan province indicated that 10,000 persons were made homeless and 2,000 houses were blown down in the towns of Bocage, Bigaa, Marilao, Meycawayan, Polo and Malolos. Damage to the rice crops and to property in that area was estimated at $50,000.

Caloocan and Malabon also reported that 500 houses had been destroyed, leaving 2,000 persons without shelter.

Those who lost their homes gathered in the churches and chapels of the various towns, waiting for the rain to cease and for the relief workers to reach them. Flooded highways made the problem of communicating with them and bringing them supplies difficult. The Pampanga Bus company, however, reported that it is maintaining its regular schedules to the suburban areas. In Manila proper, 300 families lost their homes chiefly in the Tondo and Nipa districts.

DO YOU GET UP NIGHTS
Are You Over 40?

If so, nature is warning you of danger ahead. Get rid of your trouble early. Make this 25c test. Get Juniper oil, Buchu leaves, etc., in green tablets. Ask for BUKETS, the bladder laxative. Take 12 of them in four days; if not pleased go back and get your money. BUKETS work on the bladder similar to castor oil on the bowels. Flushes out excess acids and other impurities which cause getting up nights, frequent desire, scanty flow, burning, backache or leg pains. S. A. DEALERS DENY MAKING LIQUOR SALES TO MINORS

PLEADING not guilty to charges of selling liquor to minors, Ray Stapp and George Parris, proprietors of the Independent Ice House at Fifteenth and Main street, were arraigned in police court yesterday, demanded a jury trial and were released by Judge J. G. Mitchell on $300 bail each.

The jury trial was set for October 25 at 10 a. m. The arrest of the two men followed an investigation by police of an alleged liquor party by eight high school students on October 6, who said they purchased liquor at the Ice House.

While the party was in progress at the home of one of the boys, one of the four 16-year-old girls became ill, climbed from a window and drove the boys' car to her home, where she was confined for three days, it was reported to officers. Two of the four boys who allegedly bought liquor were 18 years of age and two were 17.

S. A. OFFICIALS GET MORE THAN PAID ELSEWHEREECONOMIST VISIONS FUTURE WORK FOR JOBLESS THROUGH CREATION OF NEW INDUSTRIES

Striking a note of optimism and visioning a future in which men who have been thrown out of work by the inventive genius of scientists in perfecting machines will find employment again in new and now unknown industries, Oliver E. Behymer, member of the Institute of Personal Economics and Human Relations of New York City, spoke last night in Willard school at the first of a series of three Institute meetings sponsored by The Register.

Behymer will speak again Friday night at 8 o'clock at Willard auditorium, while David Channing Gerard, his associate, will deliver the second address of the series tomorrow night on the subject, "Manhood Simplified." This lecture will be of interest to all business people, salesmen, clerks and executives, while professional men and parents will find the things he says stimulating and helpful.

"Our experience has been so limited and our vision so narrow," he declared, "if we could look ahead 10 or 15 years we would not be so concerned. We will see a redistribution of industry over the entire country and a complete change in industries mode of operation. There will be a crying need for small units in manufacturing. Factories have been located in large cities for convenience but now it is possible to manufacture anywhere. It is asinine and uneconomic to ship raw materials across the continent, process them and then ship them back. Goods used all over the United States should be made all over the United States. It is necessary for industry to decentralize. To relieve the relief burden in cities, this new redistribution of industry will aid in establishing the farm and factory together as working units.

"Institutions of America are sadly out of balance. Industry is high but farmers live as they did years ago. The time will come when we regard farming as a factory to create necessities of life and not a way of life. Experience may be a costly thing, as Henry Ford found out. He found that people wanted beautiful cars as well as cheap transportation." Importance of Wages

The speaker credited Ford with discovering a new principle in business when he raised all of his employees' wages to a minimum of $5 a day. Ford, he said, "suddenly saw that wages were not costly and withdrawn from industry, but representing the purchasing power which keeps it going."

"Science," he declared, "has set the stage for the greatest changes ever made in the world. Every invention, discoveries which are made through research and accident, bring with them thousands of new ideas." He called attention to the marvelous inventions and discoveries recently made, including machines which do everything but think. "Yet," he said, "these fantastic achievements from the laboratories of science are being made in the infancy of science."

"Environment is mental as well as physical. We respond to the meanings of things rather than to the things themselves. That is why so many are confused in a day of ceaseless change. If a plant cannot adapt itself to change, it cannot survive. In sheer economic world, the same is true."

"Millions now have no work and there is no available source of purchasing power with which to create jobs. Ability to produce has been increased prodigiously by science. Fewer and fewer workers man machines which produce hundreds of times as much as a few years ago, and yet these machines can still be more speeded up and improved."

Job Scarcity

"It is not a pleasant picture, and means that in the immediate future jobs will not be too plentiful. Trades are changing so rapidly that persons may work a few years and then find that there is no more need for them. Young men must learn several trades; they must have keener faculties, be more versatile and have more dexterity."

"But here is a more cheerful note. There is great danger in thinking statically and so getting a distorted and untrue picture. We are apt to think the present strata is the apex. In life there are no closed roads, no fixed goals. Life goes on. It is new and unpredictable. Life is growth and growth implies change and change implies knowledge. It is a dynamic world. Science and engineering skill which brought us to this point has not stopped thinking. Today science is a cooperative affair and with concentrated energy is creating new industries to take up the

S.A. Women Attend League of Voters Meet In Oakland

Representatives of the Santa Ana League of Women Voters had returned today from the state convention held in Oakland. Those representing this city were Ora K. Heine, president; Mrs. A. J. Knight, Mrs. J. D. Campbell and Mrs. Beaulah Rhule.

At a round table conference, the Santa Ana League presented a resolution commanding Senator Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota on the senatorial investigation pertaining to the private shipping and control of arms and ammunition, which was unanimously adopted.

Speakers at the convention included Judge Joseph Padway, special counsel of the American Federation of Labor, Dr. Glenn Hoover of Mills College, Dr. Philip Buck, Otto Paul Eller, Harrison S. Robinson, Samuel C. May, Miss Lillian Phillips and others.

During the second day of the conference delegates took action on the legislative program which will establish league policies on measures on the November ballot.

COUNTY BOARD WILL SEEK STATE FUNDS

State gasoline tax funds for repair work on Hathaway street and Santa Fe street at a total cost of $547.81 will be sought through the county board of supervisors, following action of the city council last night in passing a resolution in favor of the proposed work.

The streets connect with and are a part of the general city and state highway system and are eligible for repair work under the state gas tax monies. A street resurfacing project on West First street was recently completed and new culverts are being installed on North Main street under the same provisions.

The project calls for grading and oiling of Hathaway street between First and Fourth at a cost of $319.30, and shoulders and rock oil gutters on Santa Fe street from First to Fourth at a cost of $228.51.

City Engineer J. L. McBride was empowered in the resolution to make a request to the supervisors for funds to carry on the work.

RADIO SPEAKER TO DISCUSS GAMBLING

"The Gambler Invades the Gold Coast" is the subject of an address to be dissuaded by the Rev. J. H. Engel, minister of the Huntington Beach Methodist Episcopal church, in an address over radio station KREG at 7:15 o'clock to-night on a program sponsored by the Orange County Christian Citizenship Council, it was announced today.

Stating that the speakers are able men, who should present an interesting story of legislative activities, Gerhardt stated that both men are now Epic candidates.

"We want Orange county voters to know why men of the character and ability of Herbert F. Kennedy are needed to represent the county," Gerhardt said. The meeting is scheduled for 7:45 p.m.

Gets Parole But Freedom Is Brief

When he was arrested for intoxication only six hours after being paroled from the county jail, Frank Townsley, 57, 632 North Birch street, automatically imposed upon himself the serving of the remaining 69 days of his original 180-day sentence for vagrancy.

Townsley was arrested Saturday night but Santa Ana police dropped the drunkenness charge so that Townsley could be jailed for violation of parole.

COORDINATION

The biggest backstage joke among New Dealers is the office of coordinator. The boys titter at the mention of that vacant job. That is, all do except Mr. Roosevelt and the two ex-coordinators who gracefully backed themselves out of the impossible task.

The story is current among New Deal boi polli that the president is about ready to resort to a little kidnaping to get someone to take the post.

He needs a man with a dual personality, a mind that will stretch.

You may recall that the first coordinator, Frank Walker, decided last spring that his business needed him very badly. Mr. Walker may cut off his right arm if Mr. Roosevelt requests it, but it is doubtful whether Mr. Walker would consent to be coordinator again.

Mr. Walker's successor was Donald Richberg, who took the job just to get away from General Johnson, which may give you a hint how badly he wanted to get away. However, Mr. Richberg now is back in the NRA.

The sum total of their coordination thus far is the establishment of a telephone switchboard information service. The extent of this service is to keep track of the various farfug ingredients of the alphabet soup, just in case one ingredient might want to get in touch with another one sometime.

INCONSISTENCIES

Everyone (since Dr. Johnson) knows consistency is the bugaboo of small minds, but few people realize what a stretch of imagination will be required of the new coordinator.

For instance, Harry Hopkins is buying farms and stocking them while Henry Wallace is curtailing the acreage and slaughtering the stock. Reliever Hopkins has taken in about 80,000 rural families by purchasing farm lands for them, stocking the premises and taking mortgages.

Then AAA Director Wallace may come along and pay the farmer for reducing the acreage and killing the pigs which Hopkins bought.

Just as difficult, and older, is the problem of dovelating the AAA and NRA price policies. The fundamental purpose of the AAA is not to boost farm prices, but to restore a fair price parity between the farmers' payments for manufactured goods and the price he receives for farm products. But if the NRA works, the price of manufactured goods goes up and puts the AAA goal further behind the end zone.

After figuring that out, the coordinator can then devote himself to making the monetary police conform both to the AAA and NRA policies.

Then he can harmonize the banking policies which require liquidity of banks for meeting the requirements of examiners and for absorbing government bonds, with the other policy designed to make bankers loosen up and make commercial loans.

As relaxation from such deep stuff, the coordinator also would devote himself in off moments to harmonizing Mr. Farley with Mr. Tugwell, Mr. Hull with Mr. Peck, Mr. Hurja with Mr. Ickes, etc.

It is a good job for anyone who can do it.

The reason Mr. Morgenthau announced his new spring refinancing is that he had to. At least, all his advisers seemed to agree that if he did not, it would be a confession of weakness and might hurt the government bond market.

WAR TALK

You can get a sharp inside slant on all this war talk you have been hearing in past months by digging behind the sudden change of front by Signor Mussolini.

The world's champion sabre rattler said only 10 days ago that if Jugoslavia did not stop criticizing Italy, it might learn something about the bravery of Italian soldiers.

Shortly thereafter, King Alexander was assassinated. Now, with Italian diplomatic officials being beaten unjustly by infuriated Jugoslavian mobs, Mussolini has ordered the incidents suppressed in the Italian press. In fact, he has publicly praised Jugoslavian authorities for their efforts to maintain order.

Mr. Mussolini, like many another statesman, may bark wildly to frighten his adversaries, but he knows how to be wise and cool-headed when bitten.

COOPERATION

Our officials agree that if European statesmen in 1914 had acted as wisely as Mussolini, there would have been no World war

Even Soviet Russia is coming to his aid now. Karl Radet has come out with a leading editorial in Izvestia charging that the German Nazis may have been responsible for the Alexander assassination. That is a clever move to divert Jugoslavian suspicion from Italy, and to crack down on der furore. (The Russians really believe Hitler has made a five-year military alliance with the Japanese.)

The best analysis of the inside situation in the far east is Robert Picken's good new book with the bad title: "Storm Clouds Over Asia." For once someone has written sincerely about the Far East without being secretly subsidized either by the Japanese or the Chinese.

The most inaccessible man in Washington is Crime Pursuer Hoover. He answers the telephone to only three men.

Wholesale produce people are all smoked up about inside efforts of the AAA to make potatoes a basic commodity. They know the AAA does not intend to put a processing tax on potatoes, but fear that the whole produce field may therefore be opened up to AAA jurisdiction.

The treasury and the justice departments are not speaking to each other over the Lindbergh case. The treasury handled the investigation at first, and the D. of J. took it away.

Among regular callers at the AAA press section is a representative of the Republican national committee. The AAA readily gives him facts on which frequent newspaper attacks are based. The AAA idea is that they want to see that the Republicans get their figures right.

ANTI

The utilities remain more implacably anti-New Deal than any other financial or business element. Most other branches of conservative industry are edging into a sort of reluctant cooperation with Washington and even the bankers have tacitly decided there are healthier pastimes than defying the lightning. But most utility leaders still firmly believe that either the New Deal's hide or their own must be nailed to the wall.

There's a sharp division of opinion in inner utility circles as to whether the time is ripe to take their case openly to the public. So far the Noes have it—on the theory that public opinion has been too thoroughly steeped in the idea that utility companies are a bunch of iniquitous profiteers to believe anything to the contrary.

That's why the Edison Electric Institute—supposed to be the mouthpiece for the industry—has kept so mum. It's also why Tom McCarter—president of the institute—isn't entirely happy.

McCarter is a scrapper from the word go. He sincerely believes the utilities have been given the works and insiders will tell you he wanted to start a rip-roaring campaign to prove it. Other directors of the institute spoiled his fun by clamping on the soft pedal. But those who heard him at a recent meeting of the Empire State Gas and Electric association—where reporters were barred—say his views are none the less vitriolic because he has to confine them to the bosom of the family.

DEFENSE

Even though the utilities emulate the Sphinx in their back-stage assault on the New Deal is gathering potent momentum. They are simply using sapping tactics instead of going over the top. They are masking the utmost use of political and financial contacts skillfully developed over a span of years. Politicians of both parties—from congressmen to aldermen—have been enlisted by the hundreds. Every organization set up to combat New Deal tendencies gets open-handed—if camouflaged—assistance.

A surprisingly large amount of anti-administration publicity—though it may have no more to do with utilities than the man in the moon—is inspired by utility generalship. There's no way of telling how much the power companies have spent but you can safely bet it runs to money that Croesus wouldn't sniff at. Utility men regard such activities as a perfectly legitimate form of self-defense against annihilation.

UNIONIZATION

If organized labor decides to try to unionize the utilities in a big way it may be surprised to find how little resistance it encounters from the employers' end.

While utility leaders wouldn't exactly welcome the closer shop there are lots of things that worry them more. Some of them even feel that unionization would do

PRIZES WON IN ESSAY CONTEST TO BE AWARDED

Boy Gets Reward For Aid Given In Capturing Thief

Wallace McKague, 12, was undecided today whether he ought to save a $5 bill Sheriff Logan Jackson sent him for his aid in catching a burglar, or whether he should organize an "Eye Findem" detective agency with the windfall.

Through Wallace's mother, Mrs. E. E. McKague, 1025 West Walnut street, Sheriff Jackson sent him the $5 bill as a present, accompanied by a highly complimentary letter.

On June 20 Wallace hid behind a telephone pole and watched a man come out of the Santa Ana Soda Works on West First street with a typewriter, and then an adding machine. Wallace took the license number of the car then reported the matter to the sheriff. Officers found where the man lived, solved the burglary and another which had taken place in Los Angeles, with the result that the burglar was sent to prison.

"I am informed," Sheriff Jackson said in his letter, "that Wallace is a member of the Boy Scouts and of the Y. M. C. A., and no doubt the training he has received in these groups, aided by his native ability, helped him in making his decision and appropriate action."

Wallace also was given 24 bottles of soda water by the Santa Ana Soda Works for his work.

EXONERATE DRIVER OF BLAME IN FATAL CCC TRUCK CRASH

Unable to tell a jury exactly what happened except that his truck left the road while descending a grade, La Verne Moore, 22, the driver of a CCC truck which was wrecked in Ailso canyon Tuesday night and brought to two youths, was exonerated of blame at the inquest held yesterday afternoon from the Wrigley funeral home.

Moore was the only one of the four surviving CCC boys who was able to come from March Field hospital and testify at the inquest. He said he could not remember how the wreck occurred, partly because he was severely injured in the crash.

The youths killed were James Horton Jr., 18, 618 East First street and Robert C. Richards, 20, of Richmond, Va. The truck was en route from the Trabuco CCC camp to the San Juan Capistrano CCC camp, where Horton would have been discharged from service at the end of his enlistment the next day. Horton died in an ambulance while Richards expired shortly after being received at St. Joseph's hospital.

California Highway Patrolman Vernon Barnhill and Daniel Nichols of the forest service were questioned on details of the wreck by Coroner Earl Abbey.

Funeral services for Horton were held last week from Winbigler's while the body of Richards is being shipped to his home for burial.

C. A. Lush, Orange, is president of the state organization and will preside at the sessions. R. D. Flaherty, secretary of the Farm Bureau, with Wood and a chamber of commerce convention committee to be named in the near future, will cooperate in arranging the program, entertainment, securing a place for the convention and arrange other details.

From 200 to 300 representatives of the state organizations are expected to trek to Santa Ana for the annual convention.

REPORT CONFESSION IN KING'S SLAYING

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 16.—(UPI)—One-third of the convention voting strength of the American Legion was pledged today to demand immediate payment of the soldiers' bonus.

Five days before the opening of the Legion's convention, 17 of its 58 departments have submitted resolutions urging payment in full of adjusted service certificates.

Valencia Dancing Set Twice Weekly

The Valencia ball room on the 101 highway between Anaheim and Santa Ana is now open every Wednesday and Friday and a special program will be given tomorrow in honor of the new schedule.

Tickets will be given to each person present for admission to the Rendezvous Ballroom in Balboa for Sunday, October 21. A special announcement will be made concerning the introduction of Bank Night.

Russell Plummer and his entertainers will furnish music for the dancing, according to Harry Tudor, manager of both ballrooms. He also reported that dancing is held every Saturday night at the Rendezvous.

PATROLMEN ATTEND L. A. CONVENTION

Ten members of the Orange county squad of the highway patrol are attending the three-day convention of the California Association of Highway Patrolmen at the Biltmore hotel in Los Angeles today, tomorrow and Thursday.

Those who will be present during the entire convention are Captain Henry Meehan, Harry Aldrich, Ray Bradfield, Ben Craig, Lloyd Groover, John Turton, Harry Wild, Charles Wolfe and Floyd Yoder. Joe Cleaver will attend tomorrow.

Among the program highlights will be an outline of the safety tour of the state to be taken by George Stinson, the "singing cop."

STATE FIRE HEAD KIWANIS SPEAKER

The Rev. C. M. Aker, pastor of the Surgeon Memorial church, will be in Glendale tomorrow evening, conducting a quarterly conference there for the Rev. R. P. (Bob) Shuler, presiding elder of the Los Angeles district.

The Rev. Shuler, besides occupying his own pastorate, is also serving as presiding elder of the district to fill the unexpired term of the Rev. E. C. Emmons, who recently was transferred to Nashville, Tennessee, to serve as secretary of Home Missions for the Methodist church, South.

A new presiding elder is scheduled to be named next week at the annual conference of the church in Fresno, over which Bishop James Cannon Jr. will preside.

Jay Stevens, state fire marshal will be the featured speaker at the regular weekly meeting of the Santa Ana Kiwanis club tomorrow noon in James' cafe, it was announced today by Secretary Fred Crowell. The speaker will discuss fire prevention.

Chief John Luxembourg, of the Santa Ana fire department, will be a guest of honor, it was announced. Chairman of the day will be Claude Van Antwerp.

FIRST SCOUT REPORT SHOWS $1581 PLEDGE

"There are 10 million boys in America," O. B. Matthews, Scout executive of Los Angeles told workers in the Scout Crusade today as they heard first reports in a luncheon in La Casa Trabuco cafe, "and if these boys are right, the country will be right. If they are wrong, there is neither hope for us, for our country or for the world."

"When we went into an economic 'tailspin' in 1929 it was because of a breakdown in the individual characters who sought through gambling to get something for nothing. With the failures came the real test and many have discovered that they cannot 'take it,' yet American ideals and institutions have been built upon the character of the individual citizen and if we are to continue to maintain them we must see to it that the individual boy has those activities, associations and environment which are known to produce proper habits of conduct."

The speaker said that Scouting is one place where there is no communistic activity and asserted that in Los Angeles county more money is expended in an effort to advance communism than for all boy's character building activities put together.

Reports of support for the movement today included advance gifts, establishments, business divisions, residential division and governmental division. The total reported was $1581, while the goal for this district is $6100. The drive will end Friday.

W. H. Spurgeon Jr., general chairman, presided at the luncheon. The Rev. Fr. Galvin of St. Joseph's Catholic church, gave the invocation. A group of Boy Scouts from Troop 25 gave the opening ceremony. Music was furnished by the SERA dance orchestra. Workers will meet again tomorrow noon for another report luncheon.

D. A. DEFENDS PRIVATE WORK IN HIS OFFICE

Defending private law practice among attorneys in the district attorney's office, District Attorney S. B. Kaufman made a talk over KREG last night in which he pointed out that the custom is legal and declaring that it has been in effect under every district attorney the county has had.

In recent years the practice has been restricted, he averred, and now members of the district attorney's staff are not permitted to handle divorce cases, make small collections or handle cases out of which criminal actions might arise.

He stated that no charge is made to those who consult staff members in regard to their private affairs and that no one in the office is allowed to obtain business from those who seek legal advice in civil matters. Every other county in the state where the same salary is paid that is provided in Orange county, allows private practice, he claimed.

"If people feel that private practice should be discontinued," he said, "the proper remedy is not to vote against the man in office, but to change the law and then pay salaries in accordance with the ability required of the district attorney's staff."

Kaufman took issue with the manner in which The Register comments through its editorial columns on news in regard to anything that may take place with reference to himself and his opponent, B. Z. McKinney.

He referred particularly to a Register editorial of last Saturday, which referred to a meeting at Brea at which both Kaufman and McKinney spoke. He said if doubted if J. F. Burke wrote the editorial of which he complained, declaring that "it sounds as if it was written by a man principally interested in the candidate (McKinney) rather than giving a true recitation of the facts."

The editorial referred to, Kaufman said, declared that twice a committee from the Orange County Bar Association had protested to Kaufman about private practice, but that he flatly refused to stop it.

"What I actually said," Kaufman stated, "was that on one occasion one member of the Orange County Bar association called upon me and protested concerning my private practice, and I advised the people of Brea that it would be impossible to increase the salary of the district attorney in any amount because there is a provision in the constitution which prevents the increase in salary of an elected officer during his term of office."

Kaufman said The Register also had declared that the district attorney said he considered the Seal Beach tango games were not in violation of the law. "That is not what I said at all," the candidate asserted. "What I said was that when the games operated by giving chips which could be used only to pay for more games, the games were not being operated in violation of the law. In the same issue of The Register there was a news item stating that the Seal Beach games had been discontinued because they were not profitable under the system of giving chips which are not redeemable for anything except the right to play more games." Kaufman urged his listeners not to be misled by "campaign insinuations" and said there are no gambling games now being operated in the county.

Supporters of Kaufman's opponent, he said, would have the people believe that he has a very lucrative law practice and that he is making a real sacrifice to seek election. The speaker said he did not believe any man with such a practice would be spending practically all of his time in making a political race of this nature.

"There has never been a great clamor for his services as a public official of this county," Kaufman said, "and I am advised by a former supporter of his who supported him in the race for congress, that when a congressional candidate was to be chosen this time, Mr. McKinney's name was not even mentioned as one whom they desired to support. My opponent and his supporters are asking you to support him be-

COMPARISON OF RECORDS GIVEN BY DON WILKIE

An examination of the address delivered on October 12 by Sheriff Logan Jackson, candidate for re-election to that office, formed the basis of the radio talk delivered last night by Captain Don Wilkie of Laguna Beach, candidate for the sheriff's office, over station KREG.

Stating that a clear perusal of the known facts of the two candidates' records was the only criterion by which voters should judge their respective merits, Wilkie mentioned that Sheriff Jackson has spent only 12 years as a law officer, while his own record consisted of 30 years of "intimacy with actual crime, direction of prevention and detection, and the enforcement of law."

Accusing Jackson supporters of "spreading vile rumors about me," Wilkie said that Jackson's announced belief that the voters of Orange county should elect the best man for the job of sheriff, regardless of who he is, should be discounted. "I cannot conceive his wish for your choice of the right man to outweigh the desire he displays for four more years," Wilkie said.

Referring to the cost of maintenance of the sheriff's office, Wilkie stated that the Jackson regime has cost the taxpayers of the county $93,000 last year, which he said was one-sixth of the entire cost of the United States secret service for the same period, inferring that under a new head costs of the office would be reduced.

Reiterating his campaign statement that he would not appoint deputies for political considerations, the speaker said "that no matter what efficiency has existed in our sheriff's office, that efficiency is greater and the costs of office less when your sheriff refuses to appoint deputies for political considerations."

"I am opposed to the political ring of this county," he said. "Politics could not do other than to break down morale and decrease efficiency if my opponent wins, because my opponent is the candidate of that group of political bosses who have too long controlled public offices in this country. Since then Day has stopped Frank Clinque at New York, and Saglio has knocked out Battling Gizzly of Pittsburgh.

Sheriff Jackson that "it is not only better but cheaper to prevent crime than to capture and punish the criminals after the crime is committed," Wilkie said that Jackson's record in regard to the gambling situation in the county was another good reason for Wilkie's vote.

Jackson was quiescent on the question, he said, until forced into action by newspapers of the county. Designating the period just before elections as the "politician's Christmas," Wilkie claimed that the re-election of Jackson would only result in another period of inactivity, until he was goaded into action by newspapers or the imminence of an election.

In closing, Captain Wilkie stated that his next radio talk would be devoted to an examination of the preparations made by the sheriff's office for ending the recent mill strike.

CITY INSURANCE IS AWARDED SUNDQUIST

Submitting the lowest bid for auto fleet insurance for the city of Santa Ana during the coming year, E. M. Sundquist was awarded the contract by the city council last night.

Sundquist handled the insurance during the past 12 months. Three bids were received, the others being from E. D. Holmes and William McKay, the latter having passed away in the last week. Sundquist quoted a total cost of $1635.82, Holmes submitted a bid of $1640.73 and McKay's quotation was $1879.58.

The insurance of full coverage includes fire and theft, collision, plate glass, property damage up to $5000 and public liability of $50,000 and $100,000.

SAYS M'KINNEY IS NEW TYPE OF CANDIDATE

he wasn't there to make a speech with suggestions of political inuendo. "Some listeners may think I was referring to that local question of public office and private practice. I was not. I wouldn't say a thing about that except—that McKinney is dead right," he added dryly.

"If I were a district attorney myself I'd hate to find myself up against the proposition of having to prosecute a man whose client fees were a part of my private income. It is not merely because of my Scotch ancestry that I admire McKinney's nerve in proposing to pass up his private practice, and the fees thereof, to serve the people, refusing to be handicapped by the obligations of past or future favors, refusing to be one-man tied to the wheels of so-called good politics."

Dealing with the question of humane interpretation of law, Chalmers declared in urging the election of McKinney, that the candidate is a man who would enforce the law in Orange county with justice tempered with charity and without personal malice and without political prejudice. McKinney's character and training, he said, would make it utterly impossible for him to "dodge any moral issue."

"Over 30 years as an observer of life, and of writing about the people who make up life, naturally develops a quick faculty in estimating human character," said Chalmers. "And I think, as I tell you, that this man McKinney, is one you need never worry about when it comes to thorough, honest, capable discharge of an office growing out of the people's mandate. He is so built, mentally and morally, that it would be unthinkable to himself to betray a trust."

"On the other hand, it is quite possible for B. Z. McKinney to show mercy and charitable understanding, where an unnecessary severity of prosecution—a fanatic interpretation of blind law—building a case for the sake of making a case and boasting his own record of convictions—would be just as impossible in him."

"McKinney's proposition—no private business for paid public officers," said Chalmers at another point, "is something new in Orange county. It is something new in politics. It is also something new in national thought and national government which, if self-considering politicians do not wholly obstruct the movement, is going to purge all public offices of graft."

Chalmers stated, however, that

PRINCETON IS ALL DRESSED UP WITH NO PLACE TO GO

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—There are no negotiations afoot for a game between Princeton and Columbia Dec. 1. Both seem tagged "unbeaten and untied."

But even a contest with the Little Lion hardly would test the Tiger of 1934.

Princeton is "five deep" in most positions.

Columbia scarcely can put one first-rate team on the field. And the loss of Paul Jackel, a Rose Bowl hero who suffered a fractured leg in the battle with Yale, didn't help matters any.

If it is the best in the east, perhaps the most formidable array in the nation that is wanted at Pasadena on New Year's Day, the Pacific Coast conference should extend an invitation to Old Nassau without delay.

Here is a band that Stanford, or whichever team emerges triumphant out on the golden slope, could not possibly mistake for a high school outfit, as was the case with Columbia nine months ago. After what happened to the Stanford Redwoods, however, it likely will be some time before another invading team slips into Southern California with the distinct advantage of being under-rated.

NO PLACE TO GO
I can't conceive what Princeton's graduate manager was thinking of when he booked this season's schedule. If he didn't know the strength of the Tiger, he is the only football man in the country who did not.

In these autumnal pigskin equality the Princeton schedule doesn't look as good on paper—Amherst, Williams, Washington and Lee, Cornell, Harvard, Lehigh, Yale and Dartmouth.

Analyzed it seems altogether too light for an institution that can trot out four different varsity combinations of similar power, skill and speed.

Minnesota would be the ideal match for Princeton, and the Gophers had an open date.

Annihilating a team like Amherst, 75 to 0, is unfair to both sides.

Williams is another which had no right on the same lot with the Tiger.

Washington and Lee is only fair.

Cornell's surprising loss of diminutive Richmond demonstrated that the Red is way below par.

Early returns indicate that the Orange and Black will receive nothing approaching a baptism of fire until it visits Cambridge Nov. 3.

GAEL PUBLICITY MAN SUPERB

He Calls Madigan the Mad Magician of the Moraga
"SLIP" WAS - LAST SATURDAY!

BY HENRY McLEMORE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—When Mr. Will Stevens quit his post as advance man for the St. Mary's college football team, it was agreed generally in the Belle Lettres set that the adjective had lost its dearest friend, the superlative its staunchest benefactor, and the purple patch its most lavish patron.

For Mr. Stevens, in his years at the typewriter and mimeograph for St. Mary's, established himself as the Shelley, the Byron and the Robert W. Service of advance football literature. To read one of his rhapsodic outbursts on the glories of the Gaels was to swear (and pray) that there would never be another like him.

Yet, the bulletin on the St. Mary's team, which plays Fordham here Saturday, arrived today, and one reading of its eight pages revealed that not only had St. Mary's found Mr. Stevens' equal, but his peer. If Mr. Stevens was Shelley, Byron and Service rolled into one, his successor is the combined Shakespeare, Dante, Keats and Ida M. Tarbell.

Mr. Stevens was content to call the team the Galloping Gaels; Coach Madigan, simply "Slip." His successor refers to the team not only as the Galloping Gaels, but also as the Silken Saints, the Merry Men of Moraga, Contra Costa Cavaliers, Gleeful Gaels, and Scarlet Skirmishers. The Coach Madigan is the "mad magician of the Moraga."

According to Mr. X there isn't a St. Mary's player who cannot do the hundred in ten or better, or who, if called on, "could not wrestle, and successfully, too, with a rampaging gorilla."

There is only one flaw in Mr. X's soul-inspiring essay on the Silken Saints. Authored before the meeting with Nevada last week, it lists the score of games played by the Gaels, and adds: "St. Mary's (count your own from 40 up): Nevada —."

Unfortunately, Nevada licked the Scarlet Skirmishers, the Merry Men of Moraga, 8 to 7.

Which prompts us to suggest that perhaps that is why they call Madigan the mad magician. He must have been.

Keester Falls At Chicago, Injured

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—(UP)—Jockey Paul Keester was in the hospital today with an injured back, numerous bruises and a fractured left wrist. He was hurt when the reins broke on his mount, Hey Flirt, in the third race at Sportsman's park yesterday and he fell to the track. Keester, idol of the $2 bettors because of his spectacular success this summer, may not be able to ride again for several weeks.

Blase New York will see something new when the mad magician of the Moraga unfolds his new Italo Balbo shift. Sometimes called the anti-attractor, it gives the Scarlet Skirmishers countless and dazzling opportunities to switch with the speed of a lightning bolt.

Keester Falls At Chicago, Injured

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 16.—(UP)—Oscar Rankins, red-haired Los Angeles Negro, will attempt to wrest the state middleweight title from "Swede" Berglund, San Bernardino, in a 10-round bout at the Olympic tonight.

Berglund, who has not lost a decision in two years, is expected to find a stubborn foe in Rankins who recently scored a decisive victory over "Gorilla" Jones, erstwhile N. B. A. middleweight titlist.

Floyd Vaughan returned from a successful baseball campaign, but didn't waste much time in Fullerton. He and his father lost little time getting north to the dear country.

The Pirale shortstop completed the season with a .333 batting average to tie for sixth place honors with "Rip" Collins of St. Louis. Vaughan connected for 186 hits out of 558 times at bat in 149 games. He scored 115 runs.

Jack Salveson, another native of the Ojai hills, who recently matriculated at Long Beach junior college, didn't do so badly in the International league, though not as well financially as the previous season. With the New York Giants he drew a series cut for sitting on the beach.

Salveson pitched 18 games for Toronto of the International league, winding up with 10 complete games to his record and 11 victories and 4 defeats. He struck out 27 men, allowed 126 hits and passed 36.

Willard Hershberger's accomplishments are no secrets. He batted .307 for Hollywood this season and though not certain where he'll do his chores next spring believes that he will get a break at last and make the New York Yankees. Hershberger has just returned from a hunting tour which yielded two prize bucks.

CLUB TOLD OF SITUATION IN ITALY TODAY

ORANGE, Oct. 16.—The present political and the military status of Italy were described by Dr. Daniel F. Fox, of Pasadena, at the first fall meeting of the Orange Men's club in the Episcopal parish hall Monday night. The speaker, whose topic was "A Personal Impression of Mussolini," told of an hour's interview granted him by Mussolini.

"Previous to his political career, Mussolini was a newspaperman and owned a small paper now one of the largest papers in Italy," Dr. Fox said. "Asked how he prepared his addresses, he said, 'In my experience as a newspaper man I was taught to be precise. If there is a big word, I split it into two small ones. I want the average man to know what I am talking about.' In reply to my question as to how he kept the pace at which he lives, the premier replied, 'Flame means fuel. It has to be fed; sometimes it is hope, and sometimes it is just enthusiasm for the cause'."

"There are no political parties in Italy, nor division of labor," Fox stated. "The only organization that is allowed is the Fascist and all work is under the Charter of Labor. The Fascist party consists of a minority, a little over a million people in a land of 43 million, but its rule is absolute."

"Abraham Lincoln is an Italian idol. At the termination of the interview, I asked Il Duce for a message for the young people in America who lacked 'pull.' Mussolini replied, 'If they have it in them, they don't need a message, if they haven't, a message wouldn't do them any good'."

The membership of the Men's club has been limited to 100 members, and this quota has been reached, it was stated. H. D. Nichols, president, presided.

Entertainment was furnished by Sally Coe Mueller, who sang several numbers, accompanied on the piano by her mother, Mrs. Ruth Coe. Tables were decked with flowers from the High school garden and dinner was served by the Trinity guild.

BETTER HOUSING PROGRAM MEANS MORE JOBS FOR BUILDING WORKERS:

Chairman of Local Committees Declares Plan Was Evolved by Business Leaders.

The National Housing Act is the Nation's challenge to the forces of depression which have left in their wake lagging construction and capital-goods industries.

Explaining the objectives of this highly important legislation today, Mr. W. C. Jerome, Chairman of the Santa Ana Better Housing Campaign Committee, pointed out that the program is more than a plan to revive a single industry. "It is," he said, "a broad recovery measure regarded as one of the most far-reaching in importance that has been enacted by Congress since the National Recovery Act."

"It is a plan to remove the largest remaining obstacle in the way of full recovery," Mr. Jerome declared, "one which is destined to restore to useful, private enterprise the largest group of workers still unemployed."

"No single man or industry proposed the National Housing Act. It is the work of a group of leading business men, among them the heads of the largest commercial organizations, banks, and insurance companies, and representatives of important manufacturing and trading interests."

"Early last winter these men became concerned with the slow progress toward recovery of certain basic industries. They found that whereas consumer goods had made a substantial come-back since the bank holiday of 1933, there were other industries, principally those dealing in heavy or durable goods, that were falling far behind. The most important of these was the construction industry. It was found that new home building had dropped nearly 90 per cent from the 1926-29 level, and that nearly one third of all the families then on the relief rolls were the families of workers normally engaged in building. It was to solve this situation that the National Housing Act became law.

It is expected to alleviate the distress among a large portion of the 4,000,000 persons in the U. S. who normally depend upon the construction industry for their livelihood."

The Federal Government, through the Housing Administration, will insure lending agencies against 100 per cent of all losses, provided the total of such losses does not exceed 20 per cent of the aggregate amount of funds advanced for property improvements.

If a lending agency acquires notes aggregating a total volume of $100,000, it will be insured against 100 per cent of loss on all items up to 100 per cent of loss on all items up to total aggregate losses of $20,000.

The Federal Housing Administration, in its rules and regulations covering the making of loans, will not require collateral, except in some cases where the State law demands mortgages as security for loans. This is true of some building and loan associations and savings banks, but the great majority of loans to be made under this plan will be in the form of character loans, based solely on the reputation of the borrower and his ability to repay. Endorsers and co-makers will not be needed.

James A. Moffett, the Housing Administrator, emphasizes that while the Federal Housing Administration is anxious to receive the heartiest cooperation from property owners and the public, no modernization loans that are not fully justified on the grounds of sound judgment are desired.

Foreign War Veterans To Play Santa Role For Needy

WILL REBUILD WORK DONE BY OLD TOYS: ASK COOPERATIVES
PUBLIC'S HELP BEING CHECKED

In an effort to be of service to the community and to see that there are no children in Santa Ana whose faith in Santa Claus would be shaken if they received nothing in their stockings this coming Christmas, Ernest Kellogg Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, will rebuild old toys donated by residents of this city and vicinity, and will manufacture new ones for children of needy families.

Announcement of the plan to play Santa Claus to underprivileged children of the city was made today by Charles E. Camm, commander of the veteran post.

In order to make the program a success, the first thing which is necessary is for residents of the city to cooperate in digging up discarded toys such as dolls, wagons, trains, airplanes, boats, tricycles, doll houses, etc., and to notify the veterans where they may be collected.

"Without the hearty cooperation of a public imbued and inspired with the giving spirit of Christmas, the venture cannot prove successful," Camm said. "Not one of the toys which is reclaimed or constructed will be placed on the market for sale. All of them will be given away, distributed by truck by a Santa Claus, to gladden the hearts of anxious parents as well as of expectant children.

"The workers are in great need of a band saw and jigsaw with which to make toys of materials which are donated. They desire only the loan of these instruments, so that capable men, experienced in making toys and other articles, can use them from now on until Christmas. R. M. Hopkins, head of the committee which will be in charge of the venture, will direct work in the manufacturing end. The entire post, to a man, will aid in the work. There will be no requests for financial assistance, all that is asked is for worn-out or other toys which are not being used or which have been outgrown."

Persons who have toys that they wish to help with were asked to contact Commander Camm by telephoning 2416, or by telephoning Glenn Hendrickson, incoming commander, at 4838-W. Hendrickson pointed out today that one of the main objectives of the Veterans of Foreign Wars this year will be juvenile work. Because the fire department will not continue the repainting and remodeling of toys this year, it was thought a most proper activity of the veterans' group to take it over. All members of the VFW are soldiers, sailors or marines who served actively for the United States during war times overseas.

NEW BRIDGE DEDICATED

CEREMONIES AT NEW BRIDGE
MARK OPENING OF CUTOFF
FROM NORTH TO BEACHES

Dedicated as a connecting link to draw the northern and southern parts of Orange county closer together, Newport Harbor boulevard, and the new $50,000 Buaro bridge on the route between Anaheim and Costa Mesa, were formally given to Orange county yesterday, as hundreds joined with state, county and city officials in dedication ceremonies at the bridge.

Speaking of the "inestimable value of the new highway," and "regretting that it could not be a part of the state highway system," P. A. Stanton, state highway commissioner, represented Governor Frank Merriam at the ceremonies, cutting the ribbon stretched over the middle of the bridge to symbolize the joining of northern and southern Orange county.

Stanton recalled early efforts to secure the linking highway, paying tribute to Carl Spencer of Costa Mesa, to whose energy and resourcefulness the highway was in great measure due, he said. He also paid tribute to the board of supervisors of Orange county for their work in making the highway possible. The bridge is the only such structure in Orange county to which the government has lent aid, the United States giving $52,000 toward the Buaro construction.

Supervisor John Mitchell, representing the northern part of the county, christened the new bridge with water from the Santa Ana river, while Supervisor George Jeffrey, representing the south, christened it with sea water. Two lovely girls, Miss Jewel Cawthon of Anaheim, and Miss Mary Jean Mason of Costa Mesa, were joined in symbolic friendship with the ends of the cut ribbon as the bridge was opened to traffic for the first time.

Supervisor LeRoy Lyons, among the speakers at the ceremonies, stated as his belief that the bridge would save motorists to the beach in the neighborhood of $160,000 in a year.

Among other speakers during the services were secretaries George Reid of the Anaheim Chamber of Commerce and Harry Welch of the Newport Harbor Chamber of Commerce; Mayors Hale of Fullerton, Charles Mann of Anaheim and T. B. Talbert of Huntington Beach; Dr. C. G. Houston of the Orange County Coast Association; President LeRoy Anderson of the Costa Mesa Chamber of Commerce, and Lotus Lowden of Anaheim.

Last night hundreds joined in a celebration and street dance in Costa Mesa, marking the realization of their dreams of the new road. Ceremonies at the dedication point were arranged by LeRoy Anderson, C. G. TeWinkle, and R. L. Patterson. Last night's dance was under the direction of the Costa Mesa post of the American Legion.

The reception committee, in charge of the ceremonies yesterday, was composed of Supervisors John Mitchell, W. C. Jerome, and George Jeffrey; E. A. Spaulding, C. G. Huston and Carl Spencer, Costa Mesa; J. P. Greeley, R. L. Patterson and A. F. Rousseau, Newport Beach; T. B. Talbert, Huntington Beach; George Reid, Anaheim; Harry May, Fullerton, and Harry Welch, Balboa.

NASH SALES SHOW
TREMENDOUS GAIN

Nash sales, including both the Nash and LaFayette, for the quarter ending August 31 were 7539 cars greater than for the same quarter last year, and shipments for the first three quarters of the fiscal year were 19,224 cars more than for the same period last year.

These facts were reported by William E. Otin Jr., Nash dealer, and also that the Nash company declared a dividend of 25 cents per share, payable November 1, to stockholders of record, October 19.

For the quarter ending August 31 the company had a loss of $628,517.26 after all charges, as compared to a loss of $430,515.76 in the same quarter of 1933, which loss C. W. Nash, chairman of the board of directors, attributes to the cost of building up an expensive program — "a program which seeks as its major objective to advance our competitive position and to strengthen our dealer organization," said Mr. Nash.

The movement to secure the weather station was brought about through a request received yesterday that the chamber furnish a large Los Angeles radio station with daily information regarding weather outlook and conditions, for broadcasting. Main purpose of the broadcast, it was stated, will be to report daily the conditions at beaches so that winter conditions at the resorts can be made public.

Supervisor LeRoy Lyons, among the speakers at the ceremonies, stated as his belief that the bridge would save motorists to the beach in the neighborhood of $160,000 in a year.

Among other speakers during the services were secretaries George Reid of the Anaheim Chamber of Commerce and Harry Welch of the Newport Harbor Chamber of Commerce; Mayors Hale of Fullerton, Charles Mann of Anaheim and T. B. Talbert of Huntington Beach; Dr. C. G. Houston of the Orange County Coast Association; President LeRoy Anderson of the Costa Mesa Chamber of Commerce, and Lotus Lowden of Anaheim.

Last night hundreds joined in a celebration and street dance in Costa Mesa, marking the realization of their dreams of the new road. Ceremonies at the dedication point were arranged by LeRoy Anderson, C. G. TeWinkle, and R. L. Patterson. Last night's dance was under the direction of the Costa Mesa post of the American Legion.

The reception committee, in charge of the ceremonies yesterday, was composed of Supervisors John Mitchell, W. C. Jerome, and George Jeffrey; E. A. Spaulding, C. G. Huston and Carl Spencer, Costa Mesa; J. P. Greeley, R. L. Patterson and A. F. Rousseau, Newport Beach; T. B. Talbert, Huntington Beach; George Reid, Anaheim; Harry May, Fullerton, and Harry Welch, Balboa.

Nash sales, including both the Nash and LaFayette, for the quarter ending August 31 were 7539 cars greater than for the same quarter last year, and shipments for the first three quarters of the fiscal year were 19,224 cars more than for the same period last year.

These facts were reported by William E. Otin Jr., Nash dealer, and also that the Nash company declared a dividend of 25 cents per share, payable November 1, to stockholders of record, October 19.

For the quarter ending August 31 the company had a loss of $628,517.26 after all charges, as compared to a loss of $430,515.76 in the same quarter of 1933, which loss C. W. Nash, chairman of the board of directors, attributes to the cost of building up an expensive program — "a program which seeks as its major objective to advance our competitive position and to strengthen our dealer organization," said Mr. Nash.

The movement to secure the weather station was brought about through a request received yesterday that the chamber furnish a large Los Angeles radio station with daily information regarding weather outlook and conditions, for broadcasting. Main purpose of the broadcast, it was stated, will be to report daily the conditions at beaches so that winter conditions at the resorts can be made public.

Supervisor LeRoy Lyons, among the speakers at the ceremonies, stated as his belief that the bridge would save motorists to the beach in the neighborhood of $160,000 in a year.

Among other speakers during the services were secretaries George Reid of the Anaheim Chamber of Commerce and Harry Welch of the Newport Harbor Chamber of Commerce; Mayors Hale of Fullerton, Charles Mann of Anaheim and T. B. Talbert of Huntington Beach; Dr. C. G. Houston of the Orange County Coast Association; President LeRoy Anderson of the Costa Mesa Chamber of Commerce, and Lotus Lowden of Anaheim.

Columbus Day Inspires Appointments for Monthly Tea

Taking place a week earlier than usual in the home of Mrs. Edith Scott, 424½ South Birch street a monthly tea held last week by Sarah A. Rounds tent D. U. V. fell on Columbus day. It seemed appropriate indeed that Mrs. Lena Hewitt, patriotic instructor, should be chairman of the hostess committee.

She had arranged special features in observance of the famous date in history, working with assistance of a committee composed of Mesdames Olive Willard, Mrs. Thomas, Laura Sanborn, Eva Bell, Edith Scott, Emma Mitchell, Emma Jemison and Miss Carrie Seaman.

In addition to zinnias and other flowers arranged throughout the home, decorations included little Italian dolls. The group played cards and worked puzzles during the afternoon. Prize awards were miniature sail boats, modern "put-put" men of war figures and pottery.

Mrs. Maybell Allen, a special guest of the afternoon, read the life of Columbus as given in an old time encyclopedia. Other guests of the tent were Miss Marjorie Arnold, Mrs. Beth Stearns, Mrs. Forman, Mrs. Duncan and Mrs. Anderson.

Refreshments of Italian spaghetti, Italian bars and coffee were served.

Past Presidents

Past Presidents' club of the tent met last week for covered-dish luncheon in the home of Miss Minnie Cowan, 214 South Sycamore street, with Mrs. Maud Sutton as co-hostess. Little gifts for each member served as favors.

Plans were made to have the next meeting Thursday, November 8, at 12:30 p. m. in the home of Mrs. Carrie Smith on French street. Mrs. Lena G. Hewitt will be assisting hostess.

Miss Addie Cowan was present as a guest. Members in attendance with the hostesses, Miss Cowan and Mrs. Sutton, were Mesdames Margaret Robertson, Nelle Parker, Elizabeth Adams, Carrie Smith, Edith Moore, Rowena Grout, Flossie LaBounty, Mae Thomas, Lena Hewitt, Eva Bell, Louane Leech, Esther Gardner.

ADDITION

STOCKTON, Cal. — (UP)—Returning home late at night, B. Boccardo came upon a man attempting to rob his home. Boccardo snatched up his shotgun and the burglar fled. Nothing was taken from the house, but the intruder left three of his own, or someone else's, shirts.

Wedding Announced of Miss Nelle Bales and Robert Harbottle

Semi-Annual Diocesan Conference Will Be Held Saturday

Southland friends in general and Santa Ana friends in particular, were interested today in an announcement received of the wedding in Riverside on October 6, of Miss Nelle Bales, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Redmond W. Bales of Riverside, formerly of Santa Ana, and Robert Bruce Harbottle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harbottle of Silver Canyon.

It was a quiet morning ceremony at which the Rev. Henry Clark Smith, pastor of Riverside Episcopal church, officiated in the Bales home. Only the members of the two families were present.

Miss Bales wore a brown and white ensemble costume with white gardenias as her flowers. There were no attendants.

Lingered only for the wedding breakfast, served at a table beautifully appointed in yellow roses as a centerpiece, the new Mr. and Mrs. Harbottle left for Laguna Beach where they have been honeymooning. They are now at home to their friends at 408 Acacia street, Garden Grove, and Mrs. Harbottle has resumed her duties as teacher in Lincoln Grammar school of that community. She is a graduate of Santa Ana High school, U. C. L. A. and Berkeley, and is prominent in the community's social life and as a member of Santa Ana Junior Ebell society.

Mr. Harbottle completed his college education at University of Southern California after graduating from Santa Ana Junior college. He is a member of Beta Alpha Psi, national honorary accounting fraternity, and as certified accountant is connected with the Shell Oil company in Wilmingtton.

Mr. Harbottle's activities last week included a benefit party Friday night and a regular meeting the preceding night, both events taking place in Knights of Columbus hall.

Fall flowers and palms provided decorations for the party. Fashioned by Mrs. Harry Lippert, tallies for cards were little old fashioned dames with real print dresses, felt bonnets and tiny bouquets of flowers. Table prizes were awarded in auction and contract bridge and in $50.

Refreshments were served. Mrs. William Maag, chairman of the committee, had assistance of Mesdames J. P. Murphy, Harry Edwards, Clyde Ashen, Harry Lippert, and Mae Dierker.

Eight-year-old Martin Eitlinger of Austin, Tex., is a remarkable mental prodigy to the world at large, but to his dog, Newton Socrates, shown here with him, Martin's just a swell pal. And that football shows that Martin's interests aren't all academic.

Hitler, Now Supreme in Germany, Poses With Aides

Supreme in Germany as president-chancellor with the death of President Paul von Hindenburg, Adolf Hitler is shown, center, with Franz von Papen, left, vice chancellor, recently named ambassador to Austria, and Paul Joseph Goebbels, minister of propaganda, right, as the three conferred recently in Bayreuth, Germany. Despite the friendliness of the pose, Europe expects a showdown soon between Hitler and Von Papen, as the latter was protected during the Nazi purge by Von Hindenburg when his life was reported in peril.

Colorful Baptism Given New Coast Guard Cutter

In a mighty shower of foam and spray, the new coast guard vessel Onondaga slashes sideways into the waters of Saginaw Bay at Bay City, Mich., in this colorful launching ceremony, a baptism witnessed by hundreds of spectators. The 165-foot craft, of 11,000 tons gross displacement, was christened by Miss Alice Arnold, daughter of Representative W. W. Arnold of Illinois. It will leave soon for duty on the Pacific coast.

Uncle Sam's Electric Shop Shows Tempting Stock

Bitterly attacked by private business as a competitor, the Electric Home and Farm Authority, government organization, is proceeding with its plans to put electrical appliances at reduced cost in every home in the nation. Here is shown its striking exhibit recently opened in Chattanooga, Tenn. Every type of electrical equipment needed in the home is shown in the tastefully furnished demonstration room of this branch of the Tennessee Valley Authority.

The cake the bakers had spread out was hard to roll, without a doubt. One of them said, "Don't worry, it will soon be nice and round."

Then Dotty shouted, "Goodness sake! Are we supposed to eat that cake? It's bound to be all dirty, 'cause it's spread upon the ground."

"If we had planned to have you eat it, we'd have been much more discreet," replied one little baker. "We have other plans in mind."

"Just wait until it's rolled up tight. Then everything will be all right. We're leading to some fun for you, as you will shortly find."

Soon Scouty said, "Let's show some speed. Some help from me is what you need. I'm strong, and I can roll that cake before you can say 'boo'!"

And then he joined the bakers in their task, and soon one cried, "You win! The cake is rolled up dandy, lad. Three hearty cheers for you!"

"Now, what?" asked Goldy, with a smile. A baker answered, "Wait a while. We'll have to cook some doughnuts we've carry out our plan."

"A big dough board is right nearby. We'll mix the dough, then you can try to cut the great big doughnuts." To the board the whole bunch ran.

The dough was mixed and spread out flat. Soon Dotty shouted, "Look at that! I've cut a lot of regulars."

News Of Orange County Communities

EARLY HISTORY RECALLED FOR COAST GROUP

LAGUNA BEACH, Oct. 16.—The early days of the mission fathers and the Spanish rule were recalled in an interesting address delivered by Terry E. Stephenson, of Santa Ana, before members of the South Coast Improvement association at their regular monthly dinner meeting held last Saturday night at Hotel Laguna.

Stephenson's address dealt with the history of the southern section of the county, tracing the development of the coastline from Capistrano to Huntington Beach. A considerable portion of his talk was devoted to the historical mission of San Juan Capistrano, one of the landmarks in the county, and efforts that have been made from time to time to keep it in a state of preservation. The speaker urged the people of Orange county to interest themselves in the preservation of the famous mission.

Capt. George A. Portus, president of the association, presided over the gathering which registered a record attendance. Various announcements and reports, dealing with routine matters, were read by Secretary C. E. Grant. New members present were Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Gail, of Orange, and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Edmonds, of Coast Royal. Included among special guests were Supervisor and Mrs. George Jeffrey.

E. M. Scofield, chairman of the committee on public utilities, reported that his committee has taken up the matter of service charges for electric current with the power company, and that he hoped to have a reply before the next meeting.

Revealing considerable effort in preparation was a mimeographed leaflet distributed to those present by W. C. Watkins, chairman of the garden section, entitled "Garden Hints For Autumn." Watkins also suggested that a special effort be made by the association members to attend the Pasadena Flower Show to be held on October 27 and 28.

Miss Ann Johnson, chairman of the program committee, announced the next meeting would be held November 10, with Dr. C. G. Huston as the principal speaker. His talk will deal with the fishing situation off the coastline and what steps are being taken to stop illegal fishing operations.

ARTISTS ON TRIP

LAGUNA BEACH, Oct. 16.—George K. Brandiff, president, and Roy M. Ropp, secretary, respectively of the Laguna Beach Art association, both well known artists, departed yesterday by motor on a two-week painting trip in the course of which they will stop at points in Arizona and New Mexico.

NEW OFFICERS SELECTED FOR YORBA LINDA FARM CENTER; BALLOT MEASURES EXPLAINED

YORBA LINDA, Oct. 16.—New officers were selected at the October meeting of the Yorba Linda Farm center last night, those selected being S. L. Marshburn, president; Donald Munger, vice president; A. H. Anderson, secretary, and Bert Shaw, director. P. J. Ton presided.

Assemblyman Ted Craig discussed the propositions that are to appear on the ballot in November. He gave brief outlines of the various measures and spoke especially favorably of No. 1, which provides for a loan to veterans of the World War, and No. 23, which provides for the raising and administration of a $24,000,000 bond issue for unemployment relief. Assemblyman Craig warned that unless No. 23 passes, no further federal aid will be received.

Nos. 2 and 13 from a voters' standpoint are the same, he said: Nos. 3, 4, 5 and 6 are bills relating to the speeding of justice, and Mrs. Edna Herron was the soloist, while the church choir also presented a vocal number. Mrs. Worthy's sons and sons-in-law acted as pallbearers.

Sara Caldonia Hadley was born September 25, 1869, at Newark, Ark. On November 20, 1887, she was united in marriage to J. T. Worthy and with him came to this state 37 years ago, the family having resided in the Wintersburg and the local section since that time. Mrs. Worthy is survived by her husband, J. T. Worthy; seven children, Elmer Worthy, Glendale; Mrs. Vernie Hall, Van Nuys; the Rev. Arthur Worthy, Van Nuys; Lawerence Worthy, Huntington Beach; Conrad Worthy, Oceanview; Mrs. Viva Rhonesh, Ventura, and Miss Vanona Worthy, Compton; one sister, Mrs. Emma Pryor; two brothers, T. J. Hadley, of Oklahoma City, and J. L. Hadley, of Bartlesville, Okla.; two half-sisters, Mrs. Cesar Stockton, of Santa Ana, and Mrs. Minnie Johnson, of La Habra, and a half-brother, L. B. Hadley, of Lodi; 10 grandsons and five granddaughters.

Under the new arrangement, the opening date for Nelson Eddy, popular American baritone of operatic and motion picture fame, has been set for Saturday night, November 17. He will be followed on December 15 by the Cominsky trio, internationally known musicians and then by Mademoiselle Nina Koshetz, Russian soprano, on January 19, and the series will be brought to a close on February 16 by Manuel Perez, famous Spanish dancer in costume.

Thelma Brockett Weds D. A. Hyder

GREENVILLE, Oct. 16.—A marriage of interest locally took place at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon, Miss Thelma Brockett of Greenville, daughter of Mrs. Mary Brockett, and Denver A. Hyder of Santa Ana, being united in a ceremony performed by the Rev. Edward Moody, pastor of the Greenville Methodist church, south, at his home in Garden Grove.

The bride was dressed in a silk costume of shades of brown and carried a bouquet of carnations. The couple was unattended and witnessing the ceremony were the bride's mother, Mrs. Mary Brockett, and brother, Peter Brockett, of this place; Mrs. Mary Moody and Miss Ruth Moody and Edward Moody of Garden Grove.

Mr. and Mrs. Hyder are at home to friends at their home on Brown street, Santa Ana.

HOUD FUNERAL SERVICES FOR MRS. J. WORTHY

MIDWAY CITY, Oct. 16.—The funeral of a pioneer resident of this section, Mrs. Sara Caldonia Worthy, wife of J. T. Worthy, of Bolsa boulevard, whose death occurred Saturday evening at the family home following confinement of three years to her home due to paralysis, was conducted Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the First Christian church in Huntington Beach, interment following at Westminster Memorial park at Midway City.

The Rev. J. G. Hurst, pastor of the Christian church, of which Mrs. Worthy was a charter member, preached the funeral sermon and Mrs. Edna Herron was the soloist, while the church choir also presented a vocal number. Mrs. Worthy's sons and sons-in-law acted as pallbearers.

Sara Caldonia Hadley was born September 25, 1869, at Newark, Ark. On November 20, 1887, she

A WORTHY ORGANIZATION

The Orange county council of the Boy Scouts of America is having its drive for funds this week. In these days of financial and economic stress we are too apt, as adults and parents, to overlook, if not forget, the really more important values in the life of our youth.

To be sure, nothing can take the place of food and clothing and shelter, but for these, some way or other, we can get the co-operation of society, friends, relatives and government. But still in our anxiety to get these material needs, we must bear in mind that the strengthening and building up of the youth in high moral purpose and rectitude is necessary for them to really be worthy of the material support they receive.

There are serious break-downs in authority and in the observance of those rules of conduct and life which make for the highest purpose. Unfortunately, the various agencies which have been set up by the government to aid in our material well-being, and particularly for the youth, have not even the provisions that were made in the army for the help of our soldier boys.

Authority of home, school or church is no longer the powerful instrument that it used to be. Today the influences which affect the lives of our young people must be those which are voluntarily selected by them, and which appeal to the youth themselves.

This is the value of such an organization as the Boy Scouts. It has this appeal, and by accepting the leadership and endeavoring to live up to its ideals, the boys are aided and strengthened and sustained, both by the inner influences and the co-operation of their fellows.

There never was a time when such agencies were more greatly needed than at this hour. Leadership determines the effectiveness and value of organizations. The leadership which the Boy Scouts has in this county is able, kind and dependable.

The virtues which are inculcated into the minds of the boys by the Scout movement not only tend to keep the boy and mature him into a fine and able man, but also develop a consciousness of the need of the conditions in society which is produced by that kind of youth and men.

The Boy Scouts deserve every support which can be rendered, and during this week, when the special appeal is for funds, we sincerely trust that those funds will be subscribed to largely and willingly.

SOME DIFFICULTIES OF THE BUSINESS MAN

In their attitude toward problems of deep significance, many people are in danger of oversimplifying them. There is nothing in this world that is very simple.

Intricate interrelations bind all things together. Here is a man who goes wrong. Society, through law, takes hold of him and makes "the punishment fit the crime," as if the case were as simple as all that.

Here is another man who pays a girl $8 per week for working behind the counter. We condemn the man for paying wages that endanger the morals of the girl.

But the blame is not so easily assessed on the employer. He is in competition with others who pay the same wages, and to pay higher wages would drive him into bankruptcy.

This oversimplification of our personal and social and international problems is characteristic of most of us. It is so much easier to jump at a conclusion than to give thought to the question why things are as they are.

This paper has stood for social justice and political honesty. It will continue to do so. It has no blame for men who are caught in the meshes of a complex economic or political system.

The idealist must also be a realist. But it is one thing to be the victim of forces over which we can have no control. It is quite another thing to justify them because these forces have always existed, and condemn the man who believes that these forces should cease to exist or come under social control.

What society needs most of all in these days of confusion and maladjustment is men and women who are willing to throw aside their traditional prejudices, and, for the social good, look at all sides of a problem.

No economic school, no political party, no institution, no existing pattern is sacrosanct in itself. Only as it is exposed to the winds of progress and moves on to something higher and better is it worth defending.

An attitude of open-mindedness to all the facts, a condemnation of those to whom the light is given but who deliberately choose the darkness because their ends are selfish and their thoughts are evil—these are qualities of mind and character needed in these days when life and society have become extremely complex.

It is well to remember the words of Baron Stein when he said: "The more I observe human activities, the more imperative is laid upon me the obligation to understand."

THE CARE OF TEETH

According to a survey conducted among 6700 Texas school children, it was discovered that 70 per cent of the white children had decayed teeth, while only 45 per cent of the Negro children were thus affected. No statement was made as to the reason for this wide disparity, between whites and blacks.

Certainly it is not because blacks enjoy dental care more than whites. The reverse is unquestionably the fact. The disparity must result from the manner of life lived by whites and blacks.

No one who has observed the Negro race has failed to notice the wonderful teeth that many of them have. Set over against the darkness of the skin, they stand out like pearls in a dark setting.

There is something about civilized modern life which works to the detriment of the whites. If tooth brushes, tooth pastes and powders, and expensive dentist bills can preserve teeth from decay, the whites have all the advantages.

As a rule, the Southern Negro does not concern himself much with any of these teeth preservatives. Yet he has better teeth on the average than the whites.

If all that is claimed for widely advertised tooth pastes and powders be true, the dentists ought to be out of business. It might not be amiss if some specialist should discover for most of us who sooner or later have to come to crockery teeth, what it is about the Negro's manner of life or diet that gives him this very desirable advantage.

It may turn out, of course, that the price the Negro pays for better teeth is too high. The story which tells us that if we ate nothing but carrots we should all live to be 150 years old is very common. To which the obvious reply is, "What's the use? What would life be on an exclusive diet of carrots?"

It may be that the price the Negro pays for his superior teeth is neither desirable nor satisfying. But, at any rate, the Negro has some compensations for his lower standard of living.

Just as so many of the Negroes are happier in their misery than many privileged white men are with their comforts and their satiety, so life is not to be measured by what a man has. It was Diogenes, visiting the fair, who thanked the gods that there were so many things he enjoyed doing without.

CHARGE OF FALSE REGISTRATION MADE IN LOS ANGELES

According to the news out of Los Angeles, it would appear that there is a large false registration in Los Angeles county. Just how serious this is does not fully appear, but it is estimated at from 100,000 to 200,000.

There is nothing that strikes at the integrity of democracy as does a blow at the power to vote. The denial to a man of his right to exercise his sovereign power as a citizen or false registration, so that those exercise such power who have no right to be a part of the governing body at the moment, is destructive of the organic character of a people's government.

Just what the purposes are behind such registration; and who engineered it, if there were anyone, we will be anxious to see.

Los Angeles has a large number of people who have no permanent home, and yet who are undoubtedly citizens of the United States and of California. It is possible that many of these, in their anxiety to vote this year, have violated the law.

It is well to search the matters out, locate the trouble, fix the responsibility and have the election governed by the election laws.

We will watch with interest, the developments of the situation in Los Angeles county.

Heirs of the Incas

Christian Science Monitor

While digging scientists are uncovering the artistic and architectural grandeur of the Inca and pre-Inca civilizations in Peru, others are discovering the heirs to those civilizations. Millions of Indians in the valleys and on the bleak plateaus of Ecuador, Peru and Bolivia, thus far either ignored or neglected, are receiving the attention of sociologists and statesmen.

The Peruvian paper, La Verdad, published in Sicuan, makes the assertion that "a profound antagonism separates the whites from the Indian," and then proceeds to urge that the youth of Peru must save the Indian for his own sake and not for selfish reasons, as has been the case too often.

This strikes a welcome new note in comments on the Indian problem of Latin America. Heretofore the Indian has been, more often than not, a subject of consideration only when his white masters needed farm hands or soldiers.

That the "Indian problem" is becoming more recognized is revealed anew in a remarkable article in Current History on "Apa's Appeal to Latin America," by Earl K. James. Apa, the abbreviation for the American Popular Revolutionary Alliance in its all-inclusive program for the regeneration of Peru and Latin America has not neglected the Indian. "The country's large Indian population, much of it illiterate, superstitious, and apathetically primitive, is to be," says Mr. James, quoting the Apa program, "incorporated into the life of the nation."

The state, if Apa comes into power and realizes its announced program, will foster native arts and industries, teach the Indian in Spanish and in his native tongue, organize cooperative agrarian enterprises and "hasten the development of the Indo-European civilization that will eventually prevail." If the Indians are incorporated into the economic, political and social life of the nations where they constitute a majority of the population, many of the ills from which these nations suffer will vanish. It is to be hoped that more leaders will see this problem in so sympathetic a light.

M. M. O'Shaughnessy

Oakland Tribune

M. M. O'Shaughnessy knew what it was to pierce mountains, dam the tumbling streams of the wilderness, and convey over the valley and under the Bay, water needed for his community.

This celebrated engineer who devoted a great part of his active life to the huge Hetch Hetchy project died on the eve of those formal ceremonies which are to mark completion of the task. But he saw the real work through and realized his ambition. The formalities, to him, would have been incidental.

The tall, kindly and outspoken O'Shaughnessy had many engineering triumphs to his credit. Hawaii knew him as the man who supplied giant dams and irrigation works; San Diego paid him tribute for the great dams he erected for that city. The water system of Mill valley was of his construction.

Civil Engineer in San Francisco since 1912, "M. M." as he was known, soon impressed his vigorous personality upon that municipality and the state. He was one who held the regard and affection of those who worked under him; one who was never daunted by obstacles. Holding firm to the vision of stupendous achievement, he carried the Hetch Hetchy project through difficulties, financial and political. "I was born to build," he said, "and I love the work."

According to a survey conducted among 6700 Texas school children, it was discovered that 70 per cent of the white children had decayed teeth, while only 45 per cent of the Negro children were thus affected. No statement was made as to the reason for this wide disparity, between whites and blacks.

BIRDS ARE LEARNING TO STEAL RIDES ON AIRPLANES

The robin and the skylark,
When autumn chills the breeze,
No longer need
To soar full speed
Toward lands of warmth and ease.
Amid the woods they linger
Till skies grow chill and gray,
And then they sail
Before the gale
Upon their southward way.

Their wings do not grow heavy
As once they used to do;
With no distress
Of weariness
They're borne beneath the blue.
For when comes chill November
With snow and sleet and rain,
With one accord
They climb aboard
Some strong and speeding plane.

No need to tire their pinions
With long fatiguing flights,
No need to search
To find a perch
Where they may rest of nights.
They wait amid the treetops
Amid the gathering gloom
Till through the sky
A plane comes by
And bears them safely home.

Thoughts On Modern Life

BY GLEN FRANK

THE LURE OF THE LOTTERY

Years ago L. B. Jacks, theologian, philosopher, and of late, apostle extraordinary of adult education, wrote a husky volume called "The Legends of Smokeover, in which he created an engaging character who conceived the idea of harnessing the sporting instinct to the higher interests of society.

The sporting instinct, so this character thought, was one of the most important dynamics of human and social enterprise. He became bookmaker to the possibility of wars, revolutions, religious revivals and the like, instead of just to horse races.

The indestructibility of the sporting instinct is becoming just now a topic of popular interest as a result of the innumerable proposals for the creation and legalization of lotteries. New York has toyed with the idea of municipal lottery. There has been talk of a national lottery.

Why, it is asked, should we let mountains of good American money flow into the great lotteries of Ireland and other countries? Why not keep all this at home just when every dollar is needed?
